

John L. Lewis Keeps Everybody Guessing As Deadline Nears

By HAROLD W. WARD

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—John L. Lewis had the government and soft coal operators guessing today about his next move, with the deadline for a new mine strike less than 72 hours away.

The truce which Lewis called on Nov. 9 is due to expire at midnight Wednesday. The United Mine Workers' 200-man policy committee which authorized the three week back-to-work order, was assembling in New York today. (To meet at 3 p. m. EST.)

Any decision to extend the truce another 30 days or so would be a matter for the policy committee to approve.

Why Lewis called the group to

New York City was hard for operators or federal labor advisors to figure out.

The mine leader has been avoiding Washington. Since last May he has kept the negotiations out of the National capital—where they had been held in recent years—and called off his strike Nov. 9 from a policy meeting in Chicago.

Last Friday Lewis held a hush-hush session with U. S. conciliation director Cyrus S. Ching and coal operator George H. Love at Winchester, Va.

Most observers in and out of the industry think Lewis wants to keep the government out of his maneuvers with the operators as long as possible and meeting away from the capital may help to accomplish that.

But if he calls on the 380,000 soft coal miners east of the Mississippi river to resume their strike on Thursday, the government will be back in the dispute again whether Lewis likes it or not.

President Truman has said he will use the Taft-Hartley Act to stop a strike if an emergency is created. Just how soon an emergency would be caused by shutting off coal mining was a guess for anybody. If Mr. Truman uses the Taft-Hartley Act, which he is pledged to repeal, it could lead to an 80-day court injunction against continuing the strike.

Barkley Opens Party Campaign

Democrats Linked To "Poorhouse State"

By JACK BELL

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—Vice President Barkley starts this week in a 1950 campaign warm-up, enlivened by Republican talk of the Truman program as leading to a "poorhouse state."

Newly-wed Barkley, accompanied by his bride, is billed as the principal speaker and chief attraction at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in New York city Friday night.

Barkley is an old hand at key-noting party drives. He may come up with a Democratic answer to the charges of Guy G. Gabrielson, the Republican national chairman, that the Truman administration is sending the country into the kind of doubtful security given poorhouse inmates.

Gabrielson teed off on the opposition in a national broadcast last night, declaring:

"If we continue under the present administration we are headed for a poorhouse state and, while the inmates of a poorhouse may have a certain amount of so-called security, their lot is not particularly enviable."

The Republican chairman pounded away at the point that the government is spending money it doesn't have.

"We are today picking the pockets of our grandchildren and great-grandchildren to pay for the senseless extravagance and waste of the present administration," he declared. "Personally, I think we are paying a very high price to keep Pendergastism entrenched in deep-freezers in Washington."

Electrical Workers Going After Pensions

Philadelphia, Nov. 28 (AP)—The CIO's new Electrical Workers Union opened its week-long founding convention today with its sights already set on $100-a-month pensions and a fourth round wage boost.

Those economic aims were announced yesterday by James B. Carey, acting leader of the recently-formed right-wing organization—the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (IUE).

The convention's keynote speech today is to be delivered by CIO President Philip Murray. His remarks are to be "Off the Cuff" but many delegates believe Carey—in a statement yesterday—sounded their tone—an anti-Communist blast.

DELAYED ACTION — Dr. Arnulfo Arias, above, became Panama's third president in six days after an electoral jury announced that a recount of votes cast in 1948 showed he should have been president all the time. ## Mukden Consul And Staff May Be Home Soon

Americans Ordered Deported By Reds

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—A new Communist deportation order for an American group in China raised state department hopes today that Consul General Angus Ward and his entire staff may soon start home from Mukden.

Ward and four of his aides were ordered deported last week after a Chinese Communist "peoples court" found them guilty of beating a Chinese employee.

A second deportation order—covering the other ten members of the consulate staff—was announced yesterday. It came at the end of a trial in which ten Asiatics were convicted on charges of being American spies.

The trial's end also brought release of Ward's chief aide, Vice Consul William N. Stokes, who was seized by Communist police Saturday morning. The state department said that Stokes had been forced to "observe" the trial for seven hours. The department had feared he might be imprisoned.

Charges Faked

A report from Ward said that none of the Americans on his staff was named in the spy trial but that even so all were ordered sentenced to deportation.

The deportation order against the entire staff followed by less than a week the conviction of Ward and four aides. The state department had said that charges against the five were "trumped up." It had appealed to 30 nations to intervene with the Communists in their behalf after direct demands to Communist leaders to release them were ignored.

The spy hearing at which Stokes was an enforced observer apparently was the Communist response to the American order. State department officials said it had the effect of convicting the American staff of complicity in an espionage ring and thereby putting the whole group in the position of being thrown out of Mukden instead of leaving under American orders.

The basic purpose of the Communist authorities in all this is believed to be one of making Americans in China "lose face."

West Outlines Defense Plans

Rearming Of Germany Not On Program

By CARL HARTMAN

Paris, Nov. 28 (AP)—The west's top military men today start work on plans to use nearly a billion American dollars for Atlantic naval defenses against any Russian aggression.

Chiefs of staff of the United States, Britain and France—the major signers of the North Atlantic pact—will meet for two days in the French naval ministry building.

They are to draw a unified plan to defend western Europe. Not until the integrated plan is finished can the U. S. supply nearly one billion dollars in money and arms that congress voted to help strengthen the 11 other nations that signed the treaty.

Prosecutor Checks Charges Of Neglect At Detroit Hospital

Detroit, Nov. 28 (AP)—A doctor and nurse suspended from the Receiving Hospital staff after the death of a patient were re-instated today.

The two were on duty the night of Nov. 19 when Louis Schwartz, 38, a cab driver, reportedly sat screaming in agony for hours in a hospital corridor.

He died next day at another hospital.

Detroit, Nov. 28 (AP)—Wayne county Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien took over today in the probe into charges that a traffic victim was left neglected in Detroit's Receiving hospital for several hours before he died.

Louis Schwartz, 38-year-old taxicab driver, died Nov. 20 of chest injuries. His brother, Chas. Schwartz, charged he was denied proper medical attention when taken to Receiving hospital.

O'Brien, launching a formal inquiry today, said some statements taken from hospital personnel were "not intended to help clarify these serious charges."

"I warn that this office will tolerate nothing but straightforward statements," he added. "We will not permit hospital personnel to play ducks and drakes with this inquiry."

The prosecutor said his examination of the case left "many questions to be answered."

Lloyd Schwartz charged his brother sat in a drafty hospital corridor for eight hours the night he was injured. Then, he told officers, a faulty x-ray showed nothing was wrong with the victim, who died shortly after being removed to another hospital.

A later checkup showed the cab driver had ten broken ribs and a punctured lung.

Lilienthal Gives Report On Future Of Atomic Power

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Atomic Energy commission disclosed today that it has worked out scientific designs for a plant to "breed" precious atomic materials.

If the plan works as anticipated, it will be of momentous importance in supplying atomic materials for such peacetime projects as atom-powered ships and aircraft.

The announcement was made in connection with a news conference held by David E. Lilienthal, the retiring AEC chairman. Dr. Lawrence R. Hafstad, sitting in with Lilienthal, told about it. Hafstad is director of the AEC's "reactor development" program.

Hafstad called it "the biggest forward step in peacetime application" of atomic energy. Lilienthal simply laughed off charges from Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) that he is engaged in a "nefarious plot" to give atomic secrets to the British. Johnson made those charges over the weekend.

The word of this "breeder" project was the most important news from the conference but it ranged over a wide field.

For some months, Britain, Canada and the United States have engaged in conversations on possible broader exchange of atomic information. A new series of talks began today at the state department.

Asked what might come of them, Lilienthal said he thinks the

Truman Leaves For Southland

White House Staff Moves To Key West

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP)—President Truman left today for Key West, Fla., where he will spend the next three weeks resting and working.

Virtually the full White House staff was aboard the presidential plane, "Independence," as it took off at 8:31 a. m. (EST) for the four hour flight to Boca Chica airport.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said in advance that Mr. Truman expected to "carry on business as usual" at Key West.

The threat of a resumption of the coal strike hung over the presidential vacation. However, members of his staff said they were hopeful that negotiations might be resumed between John L. Lewis and the coal operators to permit an extension of the present uneasy truce.

The presidential staff included $20,000-a-year aides Clark M. Clifford, special counsel, and John R. Steelman, presidential assistant who advises on economic and labor matters.

The president was delighted by the warm reception given his daughter, Margaret, at her concert performance in Constitution Hall yesterday. The 25-year old singer had both her parents and her grandmother, 89-year old Mrs. David Wallace of Independence, Mo., in the sell-out audience.

Tears of fatherly pride glistened in the president's eyes when his daughter concluded her first number and the audience broke out into applause. She sang one encore number, "Smilin' Through" apparently especially for her dad.

Gomez Is Elected Colombian President

Bogota, Colombia, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Conservative party announced today it elected Laureano Gomez president of Colombia by the largest vote ever cast in this country by a single party. He was the only candidate. The embittered Liberal party withdrew its nominee and boycotted the voting.

Nearly complete returns announced by the conservatives for yesterday's balloting gave Gomez 956,315 votes. The Conservatives now can lay claim to being the majority party. The Liberals claimed that position up to yesterday on the basis of the 937,600 votes they polled in winning majorities in both houses of Congress last June.

Recovering from a long illness, Gomez was elected president of Colombia by the largest vote ever cast in this country by a single party. He was the only candidate. The embittered Liberal party withdrew its nominee and boycotted the voting.

Roiled Waters Trap 5 Towns In Washington

Heavy Blow Heading For Great Lakes

Seattle, Nov. 28 (AP)—Battered and reeling, the Pacific northwest fought today against the peril of flood in the wake of a violent wind and rain storm that left 15 known dead as it slugged halfway across the northern half of the nation.

Damage was in the millions of dollars.

Whipping across the Rocky Mountains with hurricane force gusts, the region's first major storm of winter streaked across Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wyoming. The weather bureau said it would reach the central plain states some time today. A heavy blow was predicted for the Great Lakes.

Peak wind velocity was reported yesterday from Cut Bank, Mont., where gusts registered 150 mph. Sheridan, Wyo., was rocked by 96 mph bursts.

Hundreds Homeless

The storm struck on a 1,000 mile front Saturday—from British Columbia into Oregon.

Hardest hit was Washington State. Hundreds of families were evacuated as the roiled waters of the Skagit river in northwest Washington isolated five towns in the Skagit valley. Four other communities were threatened as five inches of rain fell during a 24-hour span in the upper valley.

The immediate threat appeared, however, to have passed. Early today the normally placid waterway hit its crest with about a foot to spare at Mount Vernon where rain-drenched sandbag crews of from 300-500 men worked frantically to keep the river within its dikes.

Water lay six to eight inches deep over eight square blocks of the city which lies about six feet below the level of the river. Merchants moved their store goods to second-story levels.

Approximately 250 persons were evacuated by Army and Coast Guard crews from nearby Hamilton. Seven head of horses were known lost and a herd of 45 dairy cattle stood neck-deep in flood waters in mid-afternoon. The Lyman-Hamilton road was covered five and six feet deep.

Three Women Killed In Suction Of Fast Train At Gary, Ind.

Gary, Ind., Nov. 28 (AP)—Three women were killed yesterday when they were drawn against the side of a fast passenger train as they were standing on a station platform. Two men were hurt.

Mrs. Julia Rubenstein, 42, of Detroit, died this morning of a skull fracture. Mrs. Rose Nagy, 54, and Mrs. Ruby Winters, 36, both of Gary, died almost instantly.

Mrs. Nagy's husband, Joseph, 45, was taken to a hospital with back injuries and shock. Ottis Hurley, 32, of Gary, suffered a mangled right hand.

The victims were waiting for another train. A fireman on a train standing nearby told police he tried to warn them they were standing too close to the track.

Gary police are making an investigation. Gary has a speed limit of 40 miles an hour for trains. Fast trains create a suction as they pass by.

The train involved in the accident was the twilight limited of the Michigan Central railroad. It was enroute from Chicago to Detroit.

Kicking, lunging, rearing animals are quickly pacified by an injection of berberine, the full name of which is dimethylberberine hydrochloride. Veterinarians in Argentina who have used the drug in surgical operations, have found that its action greatly reduces danger to both doctor and beast.

Best Thing For Your Worries Is To Share Them

Chicago, (SS)—Best thing to do for the worries and anxieties of daily life is to share and discuss the worrisome problem or situation, two University of California psychiatrists conclude from a special study of worry.

The following ways of handling worry are not grown-up and not effective, the psychiatrists, Drs. Jurgen Ruesch and A. Rodney Prestwood, state:

Overindulgence in eating, drinking or smoking; trying to suppress or conceal the worry; trying to establish a feeling of "belonging" by social contacts, from conversations about the weather to club activities; trying to control the actions of friends or relatives or dictating to them.

They report their study in the current issue of the Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry, an American Medical Association publication.

A new cause for worry for some people appears in a report to the same journal by Dr. Herbert Barry, Jr., of Harvard Medical School.

Loss of mothers, through death or other separation, at a younger age than eight years may contribute to a later development of mental illness, Dr. Barry found.

Psychiatrists searching for causes of mental illness, he points out, now tend to think there are multiple factors at work instead of just one, and that the periods in life at which psychological hurts occur are also important.

With The Deer Hunters

John R. Swonick, of North Chicago, Ill., filled his license while hunting at the Walter Kluba camp. He has returned to his home with friend wife, who accompanied him to deer camp. Swonick shot a 200-pound buck.

Others filling their licenses at the Kluba camp were Edward Kluba, of Waukegan, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kluba, of Kalamazoo, and Walter Kluba, of Hermansville.

Saturday's storm failed to keep Lawrence O'Dess of Detroit out of the woods and he had a good hunt. He brought down his buck, an eight pointer weighing 180 pounds while hunting at the Mich-eau brothers' camp at Hendricks. His brother, Thomas, also of Detroit, filled his license, too. His 210 buck had 10 points. Both hunters, former residents of Escanaba, visited with their mother, Mrs. Frank O'Dess, during the season.

Stonington Woman Dies, Two Injured In Traffic Mishaps Over Weekend

Storms and icy highways contributed to hazardous conditions resulting in several traffic accidents over the weekend, including the death of a Stonington woman, fatally injured early yesterday morning on US-2 in the Escanaba city limits.

Mrs. Carl Nyberg, 57, of Stonington, died at 1 a. m. today in St. Francis hospital. She was injured at 6:35 a. m. Sunday when struck by a car driven by Wilhelm Hurkman of Escanaba Rt. 1.

The accident occurred about 250 yards north of the C&NW railroad overpass on US-2, according to city police who made the investigation.

Mrs. Nyberg was a passenger in a car driven by her son, Herman, and with them was Mrs. A. Viau, a daughter of Mrs. Nyberg. The car was halted on the shoulder of the road and Mrs. Nyberg got out to walk around the front of the car. When she stepped onto the pavement she also walked into the path of the Hurkman's car.

25 Miles Per Hour

Hurkman told police he was driving about 25 miles an hour. Mrs. Nyberg was thrown across the pavement by the Hurkman car.

Mrs. Nyberg, the former Mae Macabee, was born at Stonington and was a lifelong resident of that community. She was a member of Sacred Heart mission there.

Surviving are her husband and ten children, Rudolph of Detroit, Elmer, Esther, and Mrs. Lillian Taylor, all of Columbus, Ind.; Herman and Carl Jr., at home; Mrs. Anna Pearson, Lathrop, Mrs. Florence Gravel, Detroit, Bertha King of Perkins, and Mrs. Alice Viau of Rapid River. Two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Kranster, Soo, and Mrs. Rosie Boursaw, St. Jacques; and a brother, Frank Macabee, Manistiquette, also survive.

The body is at the Skradski funeral home in Gladstone. Funeral services have tentatively been set for Wednesday. Burial will be in Rapid River cemetery.

In other accidents over the weekend, two persons were hospitalized for treatment of injuries

Robot Kidney Saves Hunter

John Buiten Recovers Rapidly In Milwaukee

John Buiten of 1421 Franklin street, Grand Rapids, is on the road to recovery in Columbia hospital in Milwaukee following treatment last week by a mechanical kidney, for a serious case of uremic poisoning.

Buiten, a Grand Rapids furniture salesman, was stricken while hunting near Nahma several days ago. He was rushed to Milwaukee, after his ailment was diagnosed as uremic poisoning. From there he was to be flown to Rochester, Minn., for treatment in Mayo clinic. He arrived too late to make the plane, a circumstance which relatives claim saved his life.

Relatives of Buiten report he is rapidly recovering. During treatment with the robot kidney, the first clinical use of the kidney built by Allis Chalmers Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, more than half the uremic poisons were removed. The following morning the patient's kidneys began to function and removed the remainder of the poisons.

The robot kidney's performance in its first test was termed "a success beyond our greatest hopes," by Milwaukee physicians.

Bumper Baby Crop Reported For 1949

Washington, Nov. 28 (P)—If there've been more babies crying in your block recently, the Public Health Service knows the reason.

It looks as if 1949 has been another bumper year for babies. During the first nine months of the year, it estimates, a total of 2,669,000 births has been registered. That's at a rate of 24.1 per 1,000 population.

"This is practically the same as the corresponding 1948 rate of 24.2 the second highest for the January-September period in over 25 years," the agency says.

It also issued its final totals on registered live births for 1948—3,535,068. That's only four percent below the all-time high of 3,669,940 for 1947.

The largest increases, it found, generally were in the states which for many years, have had comparatively low birth rates. The national increase was 35 per cent higher than the rate in 1940.

In Michigan, the total number of 1948 births was 154,730, or 24.9 per 1,000 population. That also was a 32.4 per cent increase over the 1940 totals.

Greece Eliminates Guerrilla Menace, President Reports

Washington, Nov. 28 (P)—President Truman reported today that the Greek government, with American military help, has "substantially eliminated" the Communist guerrilla threat to Greece.

The president warned in a report for Congress, however, that "persistent vigilance and patience" will be required to prevent the Communist-led rebels from again threatening to overthrow the Greek government.

The report said most of the Communist revolutionaries have now fled into Albania, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia, abandoning most of their artillery and other weapons and equipment.

The retired restaurant owner said he withdrew the money from the bank last Friday and put it in an envelope in his pocket. The next time he reached for the envelope, it was missing, Boza said.

Fire Holds Up Work In Iron River Mine

Ironwood, Mich., Nov. 28 (P)—A fire, burning since Saturday interrupted operations today at the Republic Steel Corporation's Penokee iron mine near here.

The blaze, believed to have started from a hot bolt head dropped by a repair crew, was reported under control late Sunday. It occurred on the mine's 13th level—870 feet underground.

The company said the shaft involved is used mainly for transporting supplies and personnel. No one was endangered or hurt, it said. There was no immediate estimate of damage.

Mine crews fought the flame with fire hoses Saturday and Sunday before bringing it under control. It was reported still burning in some places, however.

Deer Season Gun Deaths Total 15

(By The Associated Press)

As Michigan's deer hunting season drew toward its close today the fatality toll from stray gun-fire stood at 15—only three short of the record 18 deaths recorded in 1943.

Vall Sak, 65, of Arnhem, in Baraga county, was the latest casualty. He was killed Saturday when his gun discharged accidentally while he was crossing a fence while hunting on his own property. The shell entered his left ear.

Peterson Talks To Rotary Club

Delta Transit Bus Troubles Told

Clark Peterson of the Delta Transit company today in a talk to the Escanaba Rotary club declared his company must either find another way to continue the transportation service it now provides, or discontinue service altogether.

Describing the problem as one important to the Escanaba community, Peterson suggested that the city might purchase the buses and operate them as a city utility.

It was his contention that the city could at least "break even" in the operation of the buses and also maintain the service the people need.

Operating costs on the part of the city would be less, Peterson said, because it already has garage, space, an administrative staff, and can obtain gasoline supplies at 25 to 30 per cent less than a private owner.

Public ownership was one of two alternatives suggested by Peterson. The other was to reduce service or to close—and service reduced beyond a certain point "will put us out of business," he said.

Many improvements have been made in the bus line since it was acquired, Peterson said. There is a good safety record. Delta Transit buses carry about 900 persons per day, of which about 350 are school children who ride for five cents, Peterson continued.

Although he declared that he did not particularly favor the suggestion that the bus line be operated as a public utility, Peterson said that might be the only solution. The bus line does provide "a service essential to Escanaba" and should be maintained, he added.

Income Tax Laws Explained In New Government Book

Washington, (P)—The government will issue a "new and improved edition" this week of the best-selling booklet in which it tries to explain its admittedly complicated income tax laws to confused taxpayers.

Internal Revenue Commissioner George J. Schoeneman announced that the 133-page pamphlet "your federal income tax" will go on sale at the government printing office here Dec. 1.

Like last year's issue—which was the first—the price will be 25 cents, despite a 13-page increase in the size.

The commissioner said the booklet is designed for those among the 53,000,000 persons making income tax returns who "have special problems or want more detailed information."

The great majority of taxpayers, he commented, won't "need or want" as much instruction as this booklet undertakes to provide.

The big booklet, observing in a foreword that "income tax laws are of necessity, complicated," tries hard to make its points in easy-to-understand language.

It has such new features as facsimiles of the individual income tax forms, new chapters on the tax treatment of installment sales and on the appeals procedures available to income taxpayers, and a detailed index.

Chinese Warship Guns U. S. Vessel Off Shanghai Port

Washington, Nov. 28 (P)—The American merchant ship Sir John Franklin reported today a Chinese Nationalist warship fired on and hit it 12 times off Shanghai.

The message from the vessel's skipper was relayed to the state department by the American consul general at Shanghai. It said all aboard the Sir John Franklin escaped injury.

The skipper said his ship was proceeding to Woosung, below Shanghai.

The Chinese warship presumably was enforcing the Nationalist blockade of Shanghai and other Communist-held ports.

The United States and other maritime nations have refused to recognize the blockade as valid.

The Sir John Franklin is operated by the Isbrandtsen Co., New York.

The circumstances of the incident were almost identical with the recent attack on another Isbrandtsen ship, the Flying Cloud.

Soo Boy, 15, Jumps On Bear In Woods

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 28 (P)—A 15-year-old Sault boy says he jumped on the first bear he ever saw in the woods.

Jim Lawless was hunting with his father, Jay Lawless, Sunday in the Salt Point area west of the Sault. The youth was preparing to jump over a three-foot log when he spotted a pile of brush.

Figuring he might scare out a rabbit, Jim landed in the brush. A bear cub hidden in the pile reared up between the boy's legs and knocked him over.

No injuries were reported and the boy's father said he isn't certain whether the boy got into the brush quicker than the bear got out of the brush.

Coal Catches Fire On Steamer Mudge, Headed For Duluth

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 28 (P)—The coal-loaded steamer Edmond W. Mudge headed up Lake Superior today after the extinguishing of two fires in one day.

Flames broke out in two holds yesterday. They were discovered when seamen noticed the snow melting on the decks.

The ship put in here and local firemen battled the blaze for five hours.

Earlier, the ship's crew put out another fire in the coal bunkers of the engine room.

The Mudge, owned jointly by M. A. Hanna Co. and National Steel Corp., was enroute from Sandusky, O., to Duluth with about 8,000 tons of coal.

Capt. C. T. Gallagher said the coal had been heated at Sandusky to thaw it out before it was dumped in the holds. The fire apparently was caused by spontaneous combustion, he said.

Sun Valley Is Described

John Lundmark Talks At Kiwanis Meeting

Sun Valley offers skiing conditions on par with those at St. Moritz and other famous Alpine winter resorts, John Lundmark of Gladstone told Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon meeting at the House of Ludington Monday noon.

Lundmark served as a member of the ski patrol at the Sawtooth mountain resort in central Idaho last winter and will be an instructor there the coming winter.

Sun Valley is owned and operated by the Union Pacific railroad and is a Swiss type resort situated at a 6,000 foot elevation, the speaker said. Accommodations are offered to suit skiers of various means. Rooms in Sun Valley Lodge range from $12 to $40 per person; in Challenger Inn, from $6 to $18 and in the small chalets and cottages as low as $2.50.

The resort is equipped with a hospital, drug store, general store, ski equipment shop, fire station and other community facilities. Eight electrically-operated chair lifts serve skiers on four mountains. The largest slope is on Baldy Mountain, where four sections of the tow extend two miles in length. Last winter, the Baldy Mountain lift carried an average of 900 skiers daily.

Other sports facilities include bowling alleys, two outdoor swimming pools with glass slides, trapshooting and skeet ranges, and a nine hole golf course.

The Sun Valley ski school maintains a staff of 30 instructors. In addition, there is a paid ski patrol of 25 members.

Many celebrities, particularly movie stars, visit Sun Valley, but the staff is instructed to treat them like ordinary guests, Lundmark said. Employees do not solicit autographs from them, he added.

William J. Miller, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

The Kiwanis club will hold its Ladies night program on Dec. 19, it was announced.

Roiled Waters Trap 5 Towns In Washington

Rockport and Marblemount also were isolated. Conway, Burlington, Avon and Sedro Woolley were threatened.

As anxious Skagit valley residents awaited the river's next crest, new flood dangers were reported farther north where the surging Nooksack river threatened to inundate the fishing village of Marietta, a community of about 300 persons eight miles northwest of Bellingham. All possible aid was summoned from the Coast Guard and nearby Fort Casey. Roads in the Lynden area were closed.

Across Puget Sound on the Olympic peninsula, flood waters receded in the Skokomish river valley after forcing 50 to 60 farm families to flee. Several bridges were washed out. The communities of New Dugeness and Sequim were flooded.

Seattle and King county escaped relatively unscathed although utility poles, trees and high tension wires were leveled Saturday night and early Sunday. A 15 by 20 foot section of blacktop street collapsed on Admiral Way, a main thoroughfare to West Seattle.

The British Columbia coast was isolated from the southern interior of the province as slides covered the Fraser Canyon highway and rains washed out a wide section of the new $12,000,000 Hope-Princeton highway two miles east of Summit, B. C. A dredge carrying $20,000 in placer gold was torn from its moorings by logs and debris and piled up in twisted wreckage near Princeton.

Nine Drowned
Raging eastward across the Cascade Mountains, the storm snapped an 826-foot radio tower (Station KHQ) in two at Spokane. A lumber shed collapsed at Colville. The control tower at Geiger Airfield, Spokane, was abandoned when 85 mph wind gusts were recorded.

The Washington Water Power company at Spokane reported more than 100 Washington and Idaho communities were without power for several hours early Sunday.

Seven persons died in British Columbia, six when their tugboat capsized off Victoria and one when he was swept into the raging Capilano river.

A man drowned when his car was thrown from the highway at the Skokomish river valley entrance in Washington State. A woman was injured fatally when her husband's car struck a rock washed down by the flood. A man was electrocuted when he stepped on a 13,000 volt power line.

A tugboat crewman drowned when he fell into the Columbia river. Two sailors from the Tongue Point, Ore., Naval station crashed into a fallen tree and were killed. Another man also died when his car struck a fallen tree in the same locality, near Gearhart, Ore.

One death was reported in Montana when wind toppled a barn wall on a rancher 25 miles north of Missoula.

Slippery Highways Boost Accident Toll

(By The Associated Press)

Traffic accidents, blamed largely on slippery highways, claimed the lives of at least eight persons in Michigan during the weekend.

Two died of burns, both in Detroit. One was a four-year-old boy who played with matches, the other a man found in his burning bed.

Cars skidding into moving trains accounted for three of the state's weekend deaths.

Two deer hunters died near Ludington Saturday. Howard Schwass, 40, of Riverton, and Gene Beadle, 20, of Custer, were hurt fatally when Schwass' car skidded down a hill and crashed into a Chesapeake and Ohio freight train.

A similar mishap eleven miles west of Caro Saturday night killed a former Cheboygan coroner, Dr. John F. Berryman of Caro. Dr. Berryman's automobile skidded into the path of another C. & O. train. He died on the way to a hospital.

A three-car collision near Mt. Morris in Genesee county Sunday fatally injured a 33-year-old LaPeer woman. Six others were hurt.

Mrs. Mary Jane Hall, the victim, was driving the last of three automobiles to be involved in the crash. The first car skidded into the second and then banged into her vehicle.

Shipping Season Extended This Year

BECAUSE of the steel strike and coal strike which forced a shutdown of iron mines and brought the shipment of ore to a halt at the peak of the normal shipping season, the Escanaba docks of the C&N.W. railroad this year will be operated until at least Dec. 10, perhaps later. The requirements for ore to help fill in the great tonnage lost during the strikes are urgent.

The handling of iron ore under the adverse conditions that exist in early December poses many abnormal problems and sharply increases the hazards to which the workmen are exposed. Navigation insurance rates likewise go up sharply on December 1, indicative of the increased dangers to lake shipping when the December storm season arrives.

Iron ore freezes in cold weather and the task of unloading ore cars and loading lake carriers under such conditions is dangerous as well as expensive. Because of these factors, ore shipping generally is halted on or about Nov. 30. This year the season will be extended as late as possible in an effort to catch up on the tonnage lost during the long strikes.

We can only hope that no serious mishaps will develop as a result of the prolonging of the shipping season. The increased hazards that must be met are another by-product of the costly strikes that shut down the big coal and steel industries and for a time threatened the economic life of the nation.

Townsend Plan Back In The News

THE Townsend pension plan, backed by an organization of aged folks with local units in communities throughout the country, is due for further consideration when congress reconvenes next year. The Townsends are seeking to force a vote in the house by means of a discharge petition requiring the signatures of 218 members. To date the petition is reported to have 179 signers.

The pension issue has been pushed into public focus as a result of developments on the industrial labor front. Steel companies and at least one automobile manufacturer, Ford, have signed union contracts providing for monthly pensions of $100 a month, including social security benefits, for workers at age 65.

Senator Taft of Ohio asked last week whether there should be a basic, uniform federal pension for everybody at age 65. If a steel worker, he said, gets $100 a month, why shouldn't a waiter? Taft estimated the cost at $12 billion annually and expressed doubt that the American economy could stand it. Thus, in effect, he answered his own question.

The Townsend plan sets the age requirement at 60 instead of 65 and provides further for equal basic federal insurance for every adult citizen in the United States.

If basic $100 a month pensions for every American at age 65 would cost $12 billion, as Sen. Taft estimates, the cost of the Townsend plan with its more liberal provisions, would cost many, many billions more. And if the American economy cannot stand the $12 billion pension scheme, it's a certainty that the nation's economy cannot stand anything like the great hand-out provided for in the Townsend plan.

But the lawmakers in an election year are not overlooking any opportunity for votes, which explains why the Townsend plan gets lip service sympathy from the congressmen. It is cruel, we believe, to hold out such high hopes to the old folks when the congressmen know that they could never conscientiously approve such an ill-advised pension scheme as the Townsend plan.

Partisan Politics At Its Worst

THE demand of five Republican members of the house foreign affairs committee that Secretary of State Acheson and everyone else connected with the Angus Ward case be fired for "unbelievable bungling" constitutes partisan politics at its worst.

The congressmen said in a joint statement, "The fact that the state department could not protect the life of one of its own officials without appealing to help of 30 other nations, including Switzerland, Panama, Cuba, Siam, the Soviet Union and the iron curtain countries, is one of the most humiliating chapters in American diplomatic history."

"The loss of face by the United States is beyond calculation. But ironically the department's action was only the culmination of a year of supine pleas and cajolery with the Chinese Communists to obtain Ward's freedom while the prestige and dignity of the United States daily sank lower in the eyes of the rest of the world."

This is the kind of thinking that urged the American government to send an armed force to Manchuria to obtain the release of Ward and his aides of the American consul staff in Mukden, Manchuria, Only a few hours after the state department called for the aid of other nations in the world to protest the arrest of Ward and his aides, the Chinese Communists in Mukden released the American consul general and the consulate staff.

The arrest of Angus Ward and the consulate staff in Mukden by the Communists was, of course, a serious breach of international diplomatic rules. By their actions the Communist rulers of Manchuria revealed irresponsibility and jeopardized their own case for international recognition. That has happened before, however, in iron curtain countries and it inevitably will happen again.

The use of peaceful means to attain the release of Ward and his aides, rather than belligerency, is in the American tradition. In this instance, the course proved to be a correct one because it did bring about the release of Ward and the consulate staff.

The statement of the five Republicans hardly represents the viewpoint of the Republican congressional membership. A number of Republicans in congress, in fact, promptly disowned the viewpoint.

Fire Safety In Public Places

A fire which occurs in a "Place of Assembly"—which simply means space used for recreational, religious, educational, political and other such purposes where considerable numbers of people congregate—can be one of the most ghastly of disasters. Thousands of lives have been lost in schools, nightclubs, theaters and similar buildings when fire struck and spread with unbelievable swiftness.

For this reason, the fact that the National Board of Fire Underwriters has revised its ordinance known as "An Ordinance Providing for Safety in Places of Assembly" is important. The ordinance deals with such vital factors as keeping aisles clear, proper lighting for exits, keeping adequate fire-fighting equipment available, providing for periodic inspections by fire departments, and so on. The proposals are all based on long experience, and together they represent a clear codification of safety "musts."

However, this, or any other ordinance, can be made effective only by action of municipal or state authorities—the fire prevention experts are powerless without official interest and cooperation. And the city and state officials concerned can perform no greater public service than doing everything possible both to prevent fire—and to hold damage and loss to the minimum when fire does strike. The proposed ordinance to govern places of assembly is an example of how that can be done.

NO GOLD IN THOSE HILLS (Grand Rapids Press)

A geologist at the University of Alaska has cast some grave doubts on the authenticity of the Fishhawk gold strike 165 miles north of Fairbanks. The expert says that one of the nuggets turned in was brass and that a couple of the others looked pretty worn.

Today's forty-niners, therefore, appear doomed to disappointment. When the whole story is told this may turn out to be an elaborate publicity stunt on the part of California to call still more attention to the fact that gold was found at Sutter's mill in that state just 100 years ago.

The Alaska story of 1949 inevitably gets a comparison with the California story of 1849. News of the alleged Alaska strike was all over the world in a matter of hours. But not until almost nine months after gold had been found on Sutter's estate did word reach Washington. Airplanes have figured in the Alaskan story, but the goldseekers of 1849 didn't even have a railroad to take them to the gold fields. They had to make the long trip by ship around Cape Horn or travel overland by wagon train. Either way, they could plan on being en route for the better part of a year.

Maybe it was worth it in those days. After all, gold wasn't so plentiful a century ago. But with all of that gold neatly packaged and reburied at Ft. Knox in 1949, it seems both useless and unromantic to look very far or very hard for it anymore. The modern "sourdough" who hopes to make a name for himself in the prospecting business had better discard his gold pan for a Geiger counter—that handy piece of apparatus which ferrets out uranium.

A dog show is where folks spur dogs on to put on the dog.

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC

It is surprising that many people of good education sound the second syllable of America as "murr" to rhyme with purr, burr. The Slate Wendall Willkie was much criticized for his "murr" pronunciation during the presidential campaign of 1940.

Correctly pronounced, the second syllable of America is given the short "eh" sound as in merit, merry, Merrimack, never the "urr" sound in mercy, merge, mercury.

Correct pronunciation: uh-MEHR-i-kuh. Andrew Carnegie pronounced his surname: kahr-NAY-ghee (hard "g" as in "ghost").

Although most Americans say "KAHR-nuh-ghee," the Carnegie Magazine, Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, states (June 1947) that the correct pronunciation is definitely with the accent on the second syllable. It is surprising, with a name that is internationally known, that the incorrect form is so frequently used away from Pittsburgh. In the home locality of the steel man and philanthropist, the accent is generally placed as it should be.

Recommended pronunciation: Kahr-NAY-ghee.

Public speakers should watch the tendency to telescope such three-syllable words as annual ("AN-yull"), history

Marshall Plan Helps France

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Paris, France.—Revisiting France after an absence of two years, you do not have to seek out the changes. The evidences of recovery are everywhere. It is the past, the prosperous, elegant, highly individualistic past—that has been restored.

American aid under the Marshall plan is largely responsible for this recovery. Without it France in all probability would have by now come under Communist domination.

But there is a catch in this surface recovery. If Marshall plan aid were to stop or even to be substantially diminished, it would be likely to wither away.

That is the grim irony of the present moment. So long as the dollars flow from the United States, so long will the prosperous surface be maintained. And practically every member of congress in the endless procession passing through here this fall has made it plain that Marshall plan assistance would be drastically cut next year.

Some have said it threateningly, venting their familiar isolationist prejudices. Others have spoken more in sorrow than in anger of the economy drive that would cut the ECA appropriation back to a billion and a half or even perhaps to a billion. The amount appropriated this year, after nine months of wrangling, was $3,850,000,000.

Americans who administer the ECA program are agreed that such sweeping cuts would invalidate the plan. It would be debated, they say, into a kind of handout scheme having little or nothing to do with European recovery. Under those circumstances the harm might actually be greater than the good.

NEW PLAN NEEDED

What this means, it seems to me, is that the Marshall concept may now have reached the limit of its usefulness. An entirely new approach is called for; an approach that will recognize the realities of this midpoint in the five-year span allotted to the "recovery" of Europe.

The realities are not too pleasant. That is why they tend to get swept under the rug when visitors are around.

To begin with take the fact that co-operation in western Europe to eliminate the ancient barriers to trade and understanding has not proceeded very far. France and Italy are about to get together with Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg to talk about cutting tariffs and improving trade practices.

But this should have happened two years ago. Only just recently has the ECA set up an incentive fund to encourage such steps. The prodding from the American side should have been more determined.

At the same time relations between France and Great Britain continue to deteriorate. At the time of the Washington conversations in September, the British were accused by the French of seeking to pull America into separate and favored agreements. The suspicion persists that John Bull across the channel is opposed to European integration and, not content merely to look on from the outside, will actively oppose it.

REFORMS COME SLOWLY

Within France reforms to strengthen the economy have been too slow in coming. Thus the tax system remains a hodgepodge, with inequities falling heavily on those least able to endure them while too often the rich and powerful escape. Hoarded capital continues, although at a greatly reduced rate, to be buried in the ground as gold by the cautious peasant or to be sent to Switzerland or America by the nervous industrialists.

The American answer to the continuing dollar deficit, with the clear implication that aid must continue to avert collapse, is to call for the integration of Europe. That is undoubtedly part of the answer. But whether it will solve the European problem is highly doubtful.

Far more than that is clearly necessary. If Europe is ever to get back into balance on imports and exports, then the United States must buy a lot more European products, which means that American tariffs must come down. This means that some American manufacturers and some American workers will be hurt. The billions going into the Marshall plan could be used to cushion that hurt. And in the long run the American taxpayer would gain because European imports would mean lower prices.

It is along these lines that thinking needs to be done. To persist in the present pattern is to risk the loss of everything that has been won thus far. It is to risk a break between America and Europe which would give Communism a new opportunity. If only because it has been so successful in restoring production and putting back the familiar surface of the past, the Marshall plan must now be supplanted by a concept fitted to conditions that prevail today.

("HIS-tree"), battery ("BAT-ree"), etc. The words should have three syllables, thus: AN-yoo-ul; HISS-tuh-ree; BAT-er-ee.

Here are a number of other words which should have three syllables: average, busily, cabinet, champion, chocolate, crockery, diary, different, easily, factory, family, finally, gallery, government, grocery, idea, interest, ivory, jewelry, leverage, liable, library, licorice, memory, mockery, mystery, opera, probably, restaurant, robbery, sophomore, usually, vacuum, violent, violet.

Occasionally the Eng- of England and English is heard with an "eng" sound, as in Engle. Of course there is no authority for this. Say: ING-glish.

Human and humble are often pronounced without the initial "h," as: YOO-m'n, UM-b'l. In serious speech it is advisable to pronounce the "h" since many people think, rightly or wrongly, that the dropped "h" is dialectal. Recommended pronunciation: HYOO-m'n, HUM-b'l.

Humane is: hyoo-MAIN; humanism is: HYOO-muh-niz'm; humanist is: HYOO-muh-nist; humanity: hyoo-MAN-i-tee.

Anything Can Happen, and Probably Will

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

SHOOTING EYE—The Michigan deer season will not end until Wednesday. Already, however, the deaths due to misdirected gunfire and firearm accidents exceed last season's entire toll.

At least 13 deaths and 36 injuries have been recorded so far compared to a total of 11 fatal and 57 non-fatal injuries in the 1948 season.

In addition, nine persons have been killed and another 107 wounded so far in small game seasons. The deer season and the season on small game continues.

What will be the grand total? Far too high. And the cause is careless haste—and a poor shooting eye on the part of the many hunters.

SITUATION—Take one hunter, and place him in the woods. Add a liberal sprinkling of excitement, speed with anticipation built up over a period of weeks or months. Put that hunter on a runway or at the end of a drive. Let the minutes and the hours pass while he waits for the sound of a moving deer the flash of buck bounding through the brush—and you have a perfect recipe for a hunting accident.

The blood runs high in the heart of the hunter, throbs in his temples, causing him to see that which is not there. Buck fever? Some call it that. Yet too often the aim of the feverish hunter is deadly accurate, tragically sure, and he kills what is there—and not what he thinks is there.

WHAT THEY SAW—Often the trigger-happy hunter kills or wounds another hunter not because he resembles a deer—but because he looks like some other animal.

One hunter mistook another member of his party for a porcupine, another shot and killed a relative because he "resembled" a bear. In Indiana a squirrel hunter killed a woman because he thought she looked like a turtle. He could see only the top of her straw hat along the bank of a river.

The stories roll in each hunting season. Stories that cause those who have never hunted to wonder if there isn't something wrong with the vision of many gun-toters.

And the answer always comes out the same: They shot at the image conjured up in their mind's eye, at something that does not exist in any reasonable form outside their imagination.

WHAT THEY SHOT—Certainly there is no other reasonable explanation for such accidents. Men do not look like black bucks with antlers not less than three inches long extending from their skulls. They do not look like black bears. They do not look like porcupines, squirrels, or turtles.

Nor do they resemble beavers—although a man was shot by a hunter while walking along the St. Mary's river in Chippewa county for that reason.

The list of things that men do not resemble, yet are shot at by hunters because they do, is almost interminable. This point remains: Until hunters learn to restrain their eagerness, to shoot only at game, such senseless accidents will continue.

YOUTH AND GUNS—Most of the hunting accidents are among the younger hunters. For this reason there is a responsibility upon the older and more experienced hunters to teach youth caution in the use of firearms.

All too often youngsters grow up with play guns. These they in the habit of pointing at others, pulling the triggers, taking "snap shots" at playmates.

They graduate from a harmless toy to air rifles and pistols and 22 caliber guns. These can wound and kill. Yet they are given them without a lesson in gun safety. Youths have shot and killed each other "playing" with small caliber rifles.

Guns are deadly weapons. They must be handled with caution and used with care. They are not playthings. And too often this lesson is not fully impressed upon the young hunter.

CUTTING THE TOLL—There is nation-wide hesitation in proposing or adopting laws that would restrict the use of firearms—because hunters immediately shout that their "constitutional rights" are being violated.

Under these circumstances it is only logical to propose that the burden of responsibility in gun safety be placed upon the hunters themselves.

Let them be more cautious in their own handling of guns, let them establish classes and teach gun safety to youngsters—and let them have their eyes tested to determine whether their vision is keen enough to see the difference between a man and a turtle.

Cleaning Sidewalks

Dear Editor:

The winter season is here again, which reminds me of a pet peeve—unshoveled sidewalks.

I understand a city ordinance requires property owners to keep their walks shoveled after a snowstorm, but where I live there are several walks that are not shoveled from the first snowstorm to the last. Nothing is ever done about it either.

What good does it do for me to hustle out after a storm and clean off my walk if the neighbors are not going to shovel theirs?

Local Reader.

Shooting At Noises

Dear Editor:

The other day I was hunting not far from Escanaba and I had an experience that I thought the readers of the Press might be interested in.

I walked through the woods for a half hour or so without seeing anything with horns. I heard several shots through the woods and a few minutes later I came upon a hunter who was a stranger to me. I asked him if he had been shooting and he said that he had.

"I just had a couple 'noise' shots," he replied. I thought I knew what he meant but I questioned him further and he told me that he heard a rustling sound in the woods so he fired a couple times in that direction.

That was enough hunting for me. I got out of the woods, but fast, and I don't intend to go back until the bombardment is over.

If anyone wonders why so many hunters are killed and wounded, this is your answer. When a hunter admits that he was shooting at noises—and says so with a matter of fact attitude—you don't have to be surprised that people are massacred while deer hunting.

It's evident that not all of the insane people are confined to institutions.

I'm Disgusted.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
Washington. — A visiting Latin-American official, talking with General Eisenhower, made the remark:

"Why don't you Americans drop a few atom bombs on the Russians right away and get it over with?"

Eisenhower wheeled on him and said: "Can you tell me where we would get the 30 million troops necessary to take and hold the Soviet Union after the bombs fell?"

Ike's response is symptomatic of the growing feeling among U. S. military men that the atom bomb is not a decisive weapon in itself.

RUSSIANS' NEW RADAR SCREEN

President Truman has just received a vitally important report on the subject of Russia's anti-aircraft defenses—particularly her radar network, which has contributed to military skepticism about dropping the atom bomb.

This report, carefully compiled from sources inside the Soviet, reveals that the Russians have a first-rate radar warning system encircling all but a small portion of the Soviet Union. In addition to this outer protective screen, they have also constructed an inner circle of radar defenses.

This report contradicts an earlier belief that the Russians had no radar net to speak of. The report may also alter the entire American strategic war plans. Until now, the joint chiefs of staff have relied heavily on the ability of the B-36 to penetrate deep into Russia before being detected. Flying at great speed and high altitude, the air force believed it could deliver the atom bomb in quantity, well before the Reds could muster an effective fighter defense. The presence of these hitherto undisclosed radar screens, therefore, will call for a re-vamping of American strategic concepts.

Note: The Siberian border is the one Russian area thus far not equipped with long-range radar stations. But the Russians, believing this to be their most vulnerable area, are working at full speed to install their latest and best equipment against the frozen Siberian wastes.

LABOR AND SMALL BUSINESS ALLIES

Hitherto, business and labor have never joined political forces to back the same candidates for congress. However, representatives of small business and organized labor are now comparing notes on congressmen—with an eye to working out an alliance for 1950.

Surprising thing is, a check of voting records shows that the same congressmen voted pretty much for both labor and small business. Twenty crucial bills, affecting labor and small business, were used as a gauge by Joe Keenan, director of the A. F. of L.'s League for Political Education, and by George Meredith, National Alliance of Independent Business. Votes on these bills showed that about 90 per cent of the congressmen who voted for small business measures also voted for labor measures and vice versa.

George Meredith, a leader in this labor-small business coalition, is former counsel of the senate small business committee under Sen. Ken Wherry of Nebraska. However, Meredith joined the A. F. of L.'s Keenan in blacklisting his former boss Wherry, once a friend of small business, had a narrow squeak in the last election, when he got no support from small business and lost the financial help of big business. So Wherry's record in the 81st congress shows that he voted against his former friends, the little businessmen.

The first on labor's blacklist, Sen. Bob Taft of Ohio, also made small business's blacklist. Otherwise, both lists include the usual parade of GOP conservatives—Senators Capehart and Jenner of Indiana, Bricker of Ohio, Millikin of Colorado, Knowland of California, Gurney of South Dakota, etc.

The only Republicans endorsed by both labor and small business so far are Senators Morse of Oregon and Langer of North Dakota, Congressmen Javits of New York, Hull of Wisconsin, Angell of Oregon, and Lemke of North Dakota. The list, however, is not yet complete.

Small business and labor disagreed over such senators as McCarran of Nevada, McMahon of Connecticut, and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, all of whom labor approved but small business disapproved. It is an ironical twist that small business blacklisted O'Mahoney, who earned his reputation as a trust-buster and champion of small business, but has been voting against small business.

Result of this poll may bring labor and little business closer together in the coming elections.

Note: Labor leaders are also comparing political notes with farm leaders.

TWO TRILLION DOLLAR INCOME

America's national income of $262 billion annually is by far the highest in the history of the world. But it looked like small potatoes the other day, when a top government economist peered into the future. This economist, one of President Truman's council of economic advisers, estimated that if the United States national income increases in the next 50 years as fast as it did between the 1870's and 1920's, the U. S. will have an annual income of two trillion dollars by the end of this century.

NOTE TO HOUSEWIVES

Iceberg Census In Baffin Bay

Reveals Drift To Atlantic Waters

Washington (SS) — Another government census is now completed and a summary issued today. It is the "iceberg census" of the Baffin Bay region. The count, taken by aerial photography, totals 40,232 icebergs during the 1949 operation. These bergs later may become a menace to shipping in the Atlantic.

The iceberg count job is a function of the U. S. Coast Guard. Counting is done to anticipate and forecast ice menace to North Atlantic shipping. Many hundreds of those spotted will disintegrate on the 2,000-mile trip before reaching the shipping lane. Others will not. Danger from them to ocean vessels on the usual routes from the United States to Europe is kept at a minimum by the iceberg patrol kept by the Coast Guard during the iceberg season.

Greenland glaciers are responsible for the North Atlantic iceberg menace. Twenty of them on the west coast along Baffin Bay are responsible for most of the icebergs that drift toward the Grand Banks off Newfoundland in the shipping lane. Coast Guard units in surface ships and airplanes keep careful watch for these great masses of ice during some five months of the year. Their exact geographical location is determined by sextant or loran and widely broadcast by radio for the benefit of vessels.

The use of loran for this purpose is a postwar application. Loran itself is a wartime development. It enables a vessel to get its location by intercepting radio beams from two widely separated special broadcasting stations. Loran can be used when the sextant is useless because of fog or darkness. It is a particularly desirable device for use in the North Atlantic area blanketed by fog from April to July each year.

Two converted Air Force B-17s were used in the aerial iceberg count. Cameras were installed in plexiglass bubbles on each side, and thousands of pictures were taken. The only sure sign of an iceberg is to see it, the Coast Guard declares, but the camera "sees" it better than the human eye.

Exhibited Leather Purse And Billfold

By JANE EADS

Washington—M/Sgt. Benjamin F. Moody, a tall good-looking Texan, has gone back home to Austin with a complete power tool woodworking shop and a $500 U. S. Savings Bond, proud winner of an Army-wide crafts contest. His carved leather handbag and billfold won the unanimous acclaim of judges in the hobby shop exhibit conducted at the Pentagon. Son of a Texas saddle-maker, he spent about 25 hours on the purse and billfold, made of cow hide and lined with calf.

Some 187 items, including everything from hand-carved chess sets to clocks and coffee tables, a plastic ukulele, fishing sets, jewelry, furniture and rugs, were included in the exhibit. They were grand final selections in the contest open to GIs stationed in posts all over the globe.

A model China clipper ship fashioned by Sgt. Robert L. Barnett of Burbank, Calif., stationed at Sixth Army Headquarters at San Francisco, won the second prize of a $250 U. S. Savings Bond and hobby shop equipment. Pvt. Thomas H. Hannen of Winfield Township, N. J., who is stationed at Fort Totten, N. Y., was awarded third prize—a $100 savings bond—for a precision square and vise.

Among the interesting contributions was a trumpet clock with intricate carving made by Sgt. First Class John Petronovich, who spent his spare time during the last two months with a scroll saw, using pieces of walnut, mahogany and maple. He won honorable mention. Others receiving the same attention were Lt. Marion L. Herby of the Signal Corps, stationed at Luzon in the Philippines, for a Navajo rug; M/Sgt. Ralph Johnson, of Camp Stoneman, Calif., for broaches and pendants carved from deer horn, and 1st Lt. Mack Stolarski, stationed at Guam, for paper weights.

Other items included fishing tackle, with fly rod and spinning rod made of glass fibers and plastic; internal carving in plexiglas.

White Yule

...Indoors

Dorothy Johnson, concert singer, lights this candelabra which is made entirely of wire and wrapped with Christmas ribbon, supports white tapers and sets on holly leaves dusted with synthetic snow. Snow-flocked evergreens and cones over the mantel (upper right) and glistening sprays of pine and jingle bells (center right) add to the white Christmas look. A miniature Christmas tree made of a giant pine cone is flocked white and stuffed with bits of velvet ribbon.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

If you like the idea of a glamorous white Christmas, dust the new man-made, textile "snow" that's available this year over the greenery that decorates your home.

New York's famed floral designer, Judith Garden, tells you how she uses white flock, dusty filings salvaged from the cutting of rayon yarn which looks like snow, to make evergreens and pine cones look as though they were touched by a fairy wand.

Flock, in pound or half-pound bags and even in smaller packages, is as available to you as it is to this creative designer, whose imaginative tricks with flowers and home decorations are applauded by a fancy New York clientele.

Get your flock from an artist-supply shop or department store.

Also get white plastic paint. This plastic tube paint applied with an artist's brush makes flock adhere properly to leaves, needles, branches or cones when it is dusted on. After greenery is flocked, it should be put away for 24 hours in a safe place to allow the paint to dry.

When you're all set, use some of Judith Garden's clever ideas for making the most glamorous display of your "White Christmas" decorations.

For the dining table, make your own candelabra. Set it on a spring of holly leaves, flocked white. For the candelabra, take heavy steel wire just pliable enough to bend and manipulate it into a candle holder and base which will take as many candles as you want to use. Wrap the steel with Christmas ribbon, as Judith Garden does, and insert needle-slim white tapers into the wire holders.

Thanks to flocking, any kind of evergreen branches and cones will spread glistening white charm over a mantel. Miss Garden suggests that you stuff the branches into a sturdy crockery jar. Set this at one end of the mantel and let white sprays and cones form their own graceful design. Balance this decoration with tall white candles, placed at the other end of the mantel.

For a door spray, use two pieces of flocked pine, balsam, fir, or what-have-you, and wire together. Hide the wire with a big bow of red ribbon, and suspend a string of sleigh or dime-store jingle bells from the spray.

Make your Christmas tree out of a big pine cone this year. If the cone is flocked white and if its crevices are stuffed with bits of red velvet ribbon, the tiny tree will make up in glamor what it lacks in size.

Utah's Governor Has Tough Time

Lee Expects He'll Ride Out On Rail

By ROBERT C. RUARK

Salt Lake City—Lee just been talking to a rather pathetic man, albeit brave as a tiger and honest as all get out. This fellow has very little future at his trade, because every man's hand is agin him. Says he: "I may get ridden out of Utah on a rail, but if I do I'll ride that rail because I do what I think is right."

This is the Hon. Bracken Lee speaking, governor of Utah. He is that rare political bird, a Republican who is still in office—one of two Republican governors elected, I believe, in the Truman landslide of last fall.

It is not inconceivable that Bracken Lee, a wiry, well-scrubbed, close-clipped little fellow, will get the tar-and-feather treatment, because in some instances even his own henchmen are sore at him.

A pugnacious idealist, Lee has offended, opposed or trampled on the tender sensibilities of nearly every voting group in his state, with no consideration as to politics. If he gets a reward for his refusal to compromise with expediency, the odds are 100 to 1 the reward will be in heaven.

Tangles With Lobbies

Among other things, Lee has tangled with labor, the veterans bloc, the farmers, the education board, the liquor lobbies, the federal welfare giveaway program and nearly all practical politicians on both sides. He even cut old age pensions, on the ground that pension is not a matter of vested right, but a question of administered charity according to the ability of the state to dispense it.

When Lee came into office this year he inherited a smelly mess in the liquor business, where the job of whisky agent, in a state-controlled booze business, had drifted into political patronage.

Lee pointed out that when the state itself was in the liquor trade, it hardly needed paid agents to sell booze to itself, so he fired 'em all. He also sent some liquor firms a bill for overcharging the state and recovered $37,000. Firing the agents made the Democrats furious, and his own Republicans scarcely less so, so they had been counting on the jobs to supply their own patronage.

Lee is strongly against federal aid to states and in a recent western governors' conference was instrumental in killing two resolutions seeking more federal money and knocked the teeth out of another. He has cost his state several millions of federal dollars in matching funds, because of a flat set against government handouts.

He stalked into the recent coal strike with a handful of state cops and raised merry hell with both sides—possibly averting a serious riot, since some 5000 pickets and 5000 non-pickets were circling each other ominously, like angry dogs. He came out of that one with everybody mad at him.

Opposed Veterans' Bonus

He was dead set against a bonus for veterans, and he vetoed a bill to grant veterans certain tax exemptions.

"Able-bodied men don't need special consideration," said Lee gruffly, thereby non-endearing himself to a few hundred thousand potential voters.

He told his school board: "You are getting more tax dollars per capita for education than any other state. You guys want every extra tax dollar we got and I'm not a-gonna wreck my economy for anybody."

He poured ice water on the farmers' pleas for extra support. He has dug up scandals and graft in the state contracting systems. He has fired brutally, and he speaks his mind loud and clear. He admits ruefully that his future may well be behind him, but intends to play out his hand at top toughness for the next three years. Along these lines he hopes feebly that maybe he can shock his constituents into an awareness of reality.

"And," says bloody-headed Bracken Lee, "if I ride that rail I can reflect comfortably on one thing. More people are talking about the state of Utah now than ever before, and that, at least, they can't take away from me."

Rip Van Winkle and Sleeping Beauty slept longer than anyone else mentioned in literature.

Incomes Doubled And Freely Spent

Washington (AP)—The average American is taking in almost three times as much money as he did in prewar 1939 and he's spending it a little more freely than he did even three months ago.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that consumer income is 190 per cent higher than 1939, just three per cent under the peak reached last year.

And the board noted that people as a whole are spending an increasing proportion of their income—$93.10 per $100 of income after taxes in the third quarter of this year as compared with $91.60 in the first quarter and $92.30 in the third quarter of last year.

The continued high level of consumer income—and willingness to spend it—helped markedly in cushioning the economic downturn earlier this year, the board said.

The agency's November bulletin showed consumer income flowing at the rate of $210,600,000,000 a year in the third quarter (July through September). That is roughly $1,400 for every man, woman and child in the country and reflects a 19 per cent increase for the postwar period alone.

Wage and salary income, which accounts for $134,409,000,000 of the total, was up 198 per cent from 1939 (the number of workers also had increased) and 23 per cent from 1946. It was off only two per cent from the peak reached in the fourth quarter of 1948.

Total wage and salary income in goods-producing industries was up 234 per cent over 1939 and 27 per cent over 1946. In stores the increase was 206 per cent from 1939, 31 per cent for the early postwar period and one per cent above last year's high mark.

Government wages and salaries were up 154 per cent since prewar, with no rise in the postwar period.

Farm owners' income was increased at 207 per cent above 1939, but 25 per cent below the 1948 peak period and three per cent off from the postwar period as a whole.

Income of landlords and owners of unincorporated businesses is 201 per cent above prewar, 14 per cent above postwar, but two per cent off from late 1948.

Income from dividends on corporate stocks is up 121 per cent from 1939, 45 per cent since 1946 and one per cent over late 1948.

Interest receipts climbed 65 per cent from prewar, 20 per cent since 1946 and five per cent above last year.

Prove Mosquitos Carry Eastern Horse Disease

Atlanta, Ga., (SS)—First proof that mosquitoes carry the virus of a severe and often deadly disease of horses and man has been found by four researchers of the U. S. Public Health Service's communicable disease center here.

The disease is known technically as eastern equine encephalomyelitis. The layman knows it as a "sleeping sickness" which attacks both man and horses. Very young children are often victims.

Its cause is one of two viruses, a western strain and an eastern strain.

Proof of the long-suspected role of the mosquito in carrying this virus came when the Public Health Service researchers found the virus in mosquitoes collected from farms in Burke and Jenkins County, Ga., where sick horses had previously been reported. Scientists have known for some time that the mosquito could be made to carry the virus in laboratory experiments, but this is the first time the eastern strain virus has been found in mosquitoes in nature.

Scientists who found the proof are: Miss Beatrice F. Howitt, Dr. H. R. Dodge, Dr. L. K. Bishop, and Miss Rachael H. Gorrie.

"Rented the first day" said Smith.

Cigaret Use On Increase

Smoking Climbs To All-Time High

Washington—A record high in the number of cigarettes smoked by the American public was hit this year, figures released by the Department of Agriculture here today show.

More persons are expected to be smoking next year because of population increases, their report also shows.

If every adult in the United States consumes his share this year, each man and woman will have smoked 3,400 cigarettes by New Year's Day, or about 170 packs. This figure includes non-smokers. Based on smokers alone, the average consumption would of course be much higher.

Cigarette smoking, says the Department of Agriculture, for the last four years has been double what it was for the five years just before the war. Consumption this year totals 358 billion cigarettes. For the period 1935 to 1939 the average was 157 billion.

The figures are rising in spite of "the higher tax rates or new cigarette taxes levied in seven states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, and Hawaii in recent months." There will probably be even more smokers in 1950 because of the population increase.

Cigarette exports for the year are estimated at 21 billion cigarettes, which despite a drop from last year is roughly four times what it was before the war.

War Against Communism
Red Party Is On Run For
First Time Since In U. S.

By PETER EDSON
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

For the first time since World War I the Communist Party in America is on the run.

Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, in his charge to the jury that convicted the 11 top Communists for conspiring to overthrow the government, made clear that the Communist Party itself was not on trial.

But there is every indication other pending court cases, plus other Federal and civil action, will drive the Reds underground or force them to quit altogether.

The significant trials, and the charges:

Alger Hiss, perjury.
Judith Coplon, spying.
Eugene Dennis, Communist secretary, contempt.
The test case on two of the 10 Hollywood writers, contempt of Congress.
Harry Bridges, perjury.
On other fronts:

The Immigration Service is vigorously driving to deport alien Communists. Several test cases are pending.

Awaiting Congressional action is legislation to detain alien subversives and the Mundt-Ferguson-Johnson bill, which would require registration of Communist front organizations and their members.

The loyalty check of 2,000,000 government employees is virtually completed and a purge of about 100 is expected.

The CIO is nearing complete success in its drive to rid itself of Red-dominated unions.

State and local governments, churches, patriotic organizations and schools have been alerted to extend their best efforts to rid the nation of the Red menace.

All these factors make Communism one of the great news stories of the coming year. It is the intention of this and subsequent articles to bring into sharper focus the murky history of the Communist Party in America.

Until now, the war on Communism has been largely one of guerrilla tactics. But sporadic sniping by loyal organizations and the government has not done the job.

What is now needed—and what the government appears determined to give—is the knockout blow. But how do you tag such a shiftily opponent? What is his fighting style? How did he develop his present tactics?

Here, briefly, is an introduction to Communism as it developed in this country:

The movement grew on three main roots: The left wing of the

Hay Fever Relief
Given By Chemical

Cincinnati, (SS)—Good results with a new, longer acting chemical for hay fever and other allergies were reported by Drs. Louis Cullick and Henry D. Ogden of Louisiana State University Medical School and Charity Hospital, New Orleans, at the meeting here today of the Southern Medical Association.

The chemical is Perazil chlorcyclizine. It is an anti-histamine chemical but differs from others developed in the fight against hay fever, asthma and so on in its longer action. This means that patients need take only one or two tablets daily.

The thirty patients, 27 with hay fever, to whom the New Orleans physicians gave these tablets got only one week's supply at a time. The second week they were given a supply of tablets that looked just like the Perazil but did not contain any of it or any antihistamine chemical. The following week they again got Perazil tablets, and so on for 14 weeks. The patients did not know they were getting different tablets every other week. They were also given a chart on which to record the time of onset of each attack of hay fever, hives or rhinitis, the duration, and whether it was mild, moderate or severe.

Dutch youngsters put their wooden shoes before the fireplace on Christmas eve.

Communist Party debated for seven days and came up with a constitution. All 48 founding fathers signed the document with aliases, fearful of raids by the Lusk committee and by U. S. Atty. Gen. A. Mitchell Palmer.

This constitution flatly declared: "The Communist Party is an underground, illegal organization."

The war of the Communists against America was on.

Where will it end? One fearful prospect is that it may lead into the third World War. Although the movement was made in Moscow and then imported into the New World, it is still managed by Moscow today.

Some say you can't kill an idea with a gun. Nevertheless, it must not be forgotten that Nazism, Fascism and Japanese imperialism—merely names for totalitarian movements every bit as dangerous to American freedom—had to be beaten in a shooting war.

All She Wants
Is Doll, Pop

Displaced Child Is Awaiting Christmas

By MARY C. FLYNN
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

Kansas City, Kans.—(NEA)—When Santa sorts out his mail he will find a letter from a seven-year-old girl who wants only "a doll and some American soda pop."

Susan Juzwiak was only a toddler when she was fed beer regularly in a German labor camp. Her parents gave it to her because there was little food and no milk or fruit juices.

"I like beer," she exclaims in the same way most American children say, "I like candy."

But now little Susan, who came to America as a Polish Displaced Person last May, is beginning to like the new, strange-tasting soft drinks. She is fascinated by the "pretty water."

Like hundreds of other former DP children who will experience their first American Christmas, Susan is looking forward to seeing a Yule tree with tinsel and bright lights for the first time. Last Christmas she got a glimpse of a tiny, unlighted tree at the DP camp in Germany. The only "ornaments" were an apple or some article from a CARE package.

Susan never has owned a doll of her own—at least not in the American sense. An old piece of fabric, tied with string and crudely embroidered "face" was the only "dollie" she ever had.

If Susan doesn't get just the kind of doll she wants from Santa, she'll understand. Her father, the only one in the family household who is employed, explained that Santa also must bring gifts for the five adults and Susan's 12-year-old sister, Christine, all of whom occupy the same four-room apartment in Kansas City.

Susan's father, Walter Juzwiak, a veterinarian, worked for a month as a dishwasher in Philadelphia, but now is a U. S. meat inspector in a Kansas City packing plant.

Little Susan was only 18 months old when her family was forced by the Germans to leave their home in Stanislawow in what was Poland before 1939 and now is known as the Soviet Ukraine.

The Louisiana Purchase almost doubled the size of the United States.

Many Mishaps During Storm

No Serious Injuries Are Reported

Swirling snow that made visibility almost zero, along with icy paving and heavy drifts that prevailed throughout Saturday and most of the night, was the cause of numerous automobile accidents in the area. Fortunately the personal injury report is light, there being but one case needing doctor's care and the patient was in shape to go home immediately after his injuries were dressed.

The first accident reported occurred shortly after dark Saturday evening when a pickup truck driven by Wesley L. Simmons, of Clio, crashed into a county snow plow driven by Ed Thodole. The accident occurred on Highway U. S. 2 on the Manistique-Doyle township line when Simmons, blinded by his lights playing against the heavy falling snow, did not see the plow until it was too late. The amount of damage has not been fully determined. The pickup truck suffered severely.

Later in the evening while Earl Fiebertz of Manistique and Ronald Bockorny of Cooke were riding about two miles west of the old Highway U. S. 2 on what is known as "Advent Road," Fiebertz, driving, attempted to make a left hand turn, lost control of the car and crashed into an embankment. The car was badly damaged and Bockorny was cut by broken glass. His injuries were taken care of by a doctor.

That same evening Earl J. Fortune, of Detroit, approaching the Soo Line overpass two miles east of Manistique, came upon a stalled car parked partially on the right of way. In order to avoid hitting it he was forced to crowd an oncoming bus driven by Jack E. Sprague, of Escanaba and in doing so had to sidewise that vehicle. The damage in either case was not serious.

Slippery paving is blamed for the mishap Sunday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock when John Denny, driving on Highway M-94 ran off the edge of the road and crashed into a tree. Considerable damage to the car resulted, but Denny was not injured.

Icy paving is also blamed for a crash, at the intersection of Manistique avenue and U. S. 2 Sunday morning, when a car and trailer, driven by Helen Weeks, of Saranac and a car driven by Werner Ammann collided. The damage was not serious.

First and secondary roads of the county are now cleared although motorists are warned that there are many treacherous places where one must proceed with caution.

The structure is practically completed except that it will have a new facing of ornamental brick to enhance its appearance and at the same time insure dryness within the building. The two doors to the right lead into small rooms one of which is used for the storage of burial equipment and the other houses cemetery tools. The double door shown toward the left is the entrance to the vault proper. The vault will be used as a storage place for caskets which cannot be buried because of inclement weather or because of the solidly frozen condition of the ground. Arrangements are so planned also that commitment rites can be held in the shelter of the building. It will serve the needs of both Lakeview and Fairview cemeteries. The work was entirely done by Manistique city employees. (Photo by Linderth)

Meter Receipts Heavy This Week

Heavy Deer Hunter Traffic Is Cause

Parking meter receipts, which since their installation last spring, maintained an average of about $175 per week, were greatly increased during the deer season rush.

Collections for Saturday were a particular case in point when the week's checkup revealed that the tolls amounted to $243.64. Of these receipts $135.64 were in pennies and exactly $108.00 worth were in nickels.

There were also a few slugs, some of which were the kind that slot machines yielded when they were in their heyday. There were also a couple of washers, plain blank slugs and a few dimes. These do not register on the meters and in the case of the dimes, the donors are out that much.

At the city hall, where the receipts are recorded, a machine made for the purpose, tallies the coins and assembles them in wrap-pers.

Yule Decorations To Be Set Up This Week

Manistique will assume the Christmas look this coming week, according to plans revealed by City Manager H. W. Heideman.

The Manistique-Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce has also some plans of its own concerning Yuletide decorations and is expected to put them into effect. Saturday's heavy fall of snow also did its full share in enhancing the shop windows now displaying a choice selection of suitable gifts.

Will Consider Carnival Date

Ski Club Meeting Wednesday Night

Setting of dates for the annual Winter Sports Carnival will be one of several important topics to be considered at a meeting of the Gladstone Ski club Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the city hall.

Bids on the concession will be opened and passed upon by club officers at the same meeting.

Erection of the ski tows also is to be talked over. One meeting for this purpose has been held and so few turned out to assist as to raise a question as to whether there is sufficient interest to warrant putting up and operating the tows this season.

All Ski club members and persons interested in winter sports are invited to the Wednesday night gathering.

War, Not Nature, Caused Desertion Of Pueblo Villages

Santa Fe, N. Mex.—The mysterious abandonment of the Pueblo Indian villages, in the thirteenth century in the southwestern United States, was due to war, not drought or depletion of the forests as previously thought.

Dr. Derie O'Bryan of the Santa Fe Laboratory of Anthropology has concluded that marauding tribes of other Indians, who were nomads, forced the settled Pueblos to leave, finally, the fortified villages which are now archaeological and tourist wonders.

Gets Dog Back Gone 6 Months

Jackson Man Pleased At Turn Of Events

A few days ago Louis Erfourth, 1415 Montana avenue, found a good looking beagle hound in the yard of the family home. It wore a collar with three tags, one a Jackson county license, and fastened to the collar was a piece of new rope. The dog apparently had broken from confinement and was lost.

He brought it to the Michigan State Police post here and a check with Jackson county authorities revealed the dog license had been issued to Carl Pitcher of Chicago Lake in Jackson county. A further check revealed Pitcher at present was staying at Cooks.

Contacted at the Schoolcraft county village, Pitcher described the dog accurately, leaving no doubt that it was his. He told troopers the dog had been stolen from him in the Ralph area last May.

Troopers said the dog was highly excited at seeing his master again. Pitcher was no less pleased at having regained his hunter again through Erfourth and the MSC.

No National Championship Among Sundry Bowl Battles

But Rose, Sugar, Cotton, Orange Are Attractive Dishes

New York, Nov. 28 (P)—The four richest bowls were chock full of football teams today, but none promised a game resembling a national championship.

Two of the nation's four leading touchdown machines, California and Oklahoma, are represented in the post-season lineup, but on different fronts. The other two top-ranked Notre Dame and Army, are not interested.

That leaves the big part of the bowl wrangling up to a group of eleven with lack-lustre records—clubs that got their share of knocks in a turbulent season that left only five major teams unbeaten and untied.

11 Defeats, 3 Ties

California and Oklahoma were among those finishing with unsplotted records. The others were Notre Dame, Army and College of the Pacific.

The remaining six teams in the major bowls carry an embarrassing total of 11 defeats and three ties among them, hardly up to the usual bowl standard.

The lineup for the Jan. 2 games:

Rose Bowl—California (10-0) vs. Ohio State (7-1-2).

Sugar Bowl—Oklahoma (10-0) vs. Louisiana State (8-2).

Cotton Bowl—Rice (9-1) vs. North Carolina (7-3).

Orange Bowl—Santa Clara (7-2-1) vs. Kentucky (9-2).

L. S. U. landed in the vast neighboring New Orleans stadium the hard way after dropping early season games to Kentucky and Georgia.

The Bayou Bengals had to lick three conference champions—Rice, North Carolina and Tulane—and get a special dispensation from their own conference, the Southeastern.

The Southeastern has a rule that a team must have at least a .500 record in the league to be eligible for post-season play. LSU bettered .667.

Sooners Automatic

But after the Bengals smashed Tulane's bowl hopes Saturday, 21-0, the circuit voted to waive the regulation. That gave the Sugar Bowl sponsors, left dangling by Tulane's defeat, one of the finest football teams available.

Oklahoma, which trounced North Carolina in the same saucer a year ago, was an automatic selection to return after humbling Oklahoma A. and M., 41-0, for its 20th straight victory.

Rice, beaten only by LSU, won the host role in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas by overwhelming Baylor, 21-7, in the game that also decided the Southwest conference championship.

For an opponent the Cotton Bowl officials reached all the way across Dixie and grabbed the unbeaten North Carolina, the colorful but erratic team that is sparked by Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice.

They made up their minds in advance that the winner of the Tar Heel-Virginia game would get the nod. With Justice starring, North Carolina edged the Cavaliers, 14-7.

College-Pacific Out

Kentucky, one of the great defensive outfits in an era of emphasis on attack, won the favor of the Orange Bowl committee with 21-6 triumph over the University of Miami Friday night. The Wildcats lost only to Southern Methodist and Tennessee.

Santa Clara, beaten by California and Oklahoma and tied Stanford, was invited last week.

The Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., the grand-pappy of them all, learned a few years ago it was no fun fighting for talent on the last Saturday of the season.

So the Rose Bowl limits its party to the champion of the Pacific coast and a hand-picked representative of the Big Ten, in this case California and Ohio State.

The main disappointments in the bowl snatching went to Tennessee, which snatched over North Carolina and Kentucky; Villanova which won eight of its nine games, and College of the Pacific, winner of 11 straight this season. They were missed.

City Cage League Opens Play Tonight

The Escanaba Basketball association 1949-50 season will open at the junior high school gymnasium at 6:30 tonight. A four-game program is on tap with fast teams and renewal of natural rivalries in each. Tonight's schedule follows: 6:30—Walt Window vs. Harnischfeger; 7:30—Cloverland vs. Blisde; 8:30—Shamrocks vs. VFW; 9:30—Powers vs. Clairmonts.

GOLF CLASS CHANGED

The golf class being conducted at the senior high school gym here by Vial Smith has been changed from Tuesday night to Thursday night because of an intramural program being held at the senior high gym on Tuesday nights.

The Chicago Cubs won 20 doubleheaders in 1945, a major league record for capturing twin bills.

SMU'S Matty Bell Moaning Because He Was So Right

Dallas, Nov. 28 (P)—Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist was in a bragging mood today. He figures he had shown the sports writers a thing or two or three.

"I said before the season started we would lose four games, Matty said with possibly more chagrin than I also said Rice would win the Southwest Conference championship. Nobody paid any attention to me. They went ahead and picked SMU to win the title and laughed at my four-game prediction. Now look."

Rice is the conference champion and will play in the Cotton Bowl. Southern Methodist has lost three games. The fourth, Avers Bell, is coming up.

Saturday Southern Methodist plays Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl. It's SMU's last game of the season.

"I hate to have to play them, the shape we're in," said Bell. "But all the tickets have been sold and I guess we'll have to go ahead."

Matty was lower down than a mole over the situation. His all-American back, Doak Walker, has a Charley horse and may not play at all. He's fresh out of Guard reserves. Herbie Wales got a dislocated elbow Saturday against Texas Christian, fullback Dick McKissack has a torn rib cartilage. SMU tackles Bobby Vann and Bobby Collier have been out for weeks with injuries.

We are just going to try to give Notre Dame a decent ball game and hold the score down," Matty moaned. "We won't do it playing defensive football either. We'll just be trying to score—trying to keep the ball."

Big Ten Cage Men Polish Up On Rules

Chicago, Nov. 28 (P)—Western Conference basketball officials and coaches polished up on rules interpretation in a two day session with Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson which ended yesterday.

Officiating technique was explained and demonstrated by movies during the annual routine meeting.

Twenty-five whistle-blowers were at the clinic. They will be garbed in standardized uniforms this season which includes a grey flannel trousers, the usual black-and-white striped shirt, white shoes and warm-up jacket of white, trimmed in blue and adorned with a Big Ten emblem.

7-Foot Gold Slab Honors Top Athletes

Los Angeles, Nov. 28 (P)—The Helms athletic foundation today unveils its newest contribution to sports—a seven foot slab of gold, silver and bronze mounted on a base of Italian marble, created to honor the outstanding athletes of the six continents.

Coinciding with the unveiling of the $5,000 trophy, the Helms board of experts, composed of local sports editors, announced a roll of 53 athletes chosen as "athletes of the year" whose names will be inscribed on the North American panel of the trophy.

These athletes date from Robb Garrett, American winner of the shotput and discus in the first of the modern Olympiads in Athens in 1896. The list ranges on down through the years and the last is young Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif., "athlete of the year 1948" and decathlon champion in the Olympics games. Benjie Oosterbaan of Michigan is included among the football greats.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Cuff notes: Escanaba's Jim Chapekis and Gladstone's Bill Beveridge were honorably mentioned in the Detroit Times' all-state selections, which placed Jim Devine, Norway guard, and Mel Holme, Sambaugh back, on the second team. . . . Three Newberry players also gained honorable mention. . . . They were Tom Taylor, the Indiana center who scored two touchdowns against Gladstone; Roy Gustafson, back, and Fossit, guard.

Holme, outstanding back of the U. P., made the first all-state team named by the United Press. . . . Last year, it was Escanaba's Warren "Moose" Gustafson who garnered all-state honors for the U. P. . . . This year, Holme is the boy the downstate sportswriters have been hearing about.

Holme made the Detroit News second team. . . . Newberry's Roy Gustafson made the UP second team and the Detroit News third team. . . . AP and Detroit Free Press selections will be announced within the week.

Warren Gustafson

The American Soo has joined the Canadian Great Lakes Hockey league along with Fort Frances, Port Arthur and the Canadian Soo. . . . The Marquette-Milwaukee-Eagle River-Soo circuit, promoted by Marquette puck bigwigs when E. J. "Lock" Schumacher, Houghton proxy of the MWO league, sat too long on the old MWO league, is still in the process of organization. . . . It's a brand new wheel. . . . An announcement of Marquette home games of interest to Escanaba fans will be made some time this week.

Free throws can't win a ball game? . . . Oh, yeah! . . . Take a look at this Sheboygan Redskin win over the Tricities Blackhawks in the NBA. . . . Sheboygan made only 33 field goals to 42 for Tricities but 54 (count 'em) free throws to 29 for the opposition gave the Redskins a 120-113 overtime victory. . . . What's going on in professional basketball game this year? . . . Remember that 125-123 game the other day.

Two Iron Mountain athletes, Pete Van Laanen and Bob Carlson, won varsity football awards at Western Michigan college in Kalamazoo-zoo.

Eagles Cinch Playoff Spot By Tipping Pitt; Rams, Bears Top West

New York, Nov. 28 (P)—The Philadelphia Eagles, National Football league eastern titleholders, marked time today waiting for their championship playoff opponent to emerge from the Western division.

They won a third straight Eastern flag yesterday in downing the Pittsburgh Steelers, 34-17.

In the All-America conference, the San Francisco 49ers trounced the New York Yankees, 35-14, to finish second.

Red Wings Blow 2 Over Weekend As Canadiens Climb

(By The Associated Press)

The Montreal Canadiens, rated among the "also-rans" in the pre-season calculations, today were a solid second in the National hockey league race—and making serious gestures at Detroit's league-leading Red Wings.

The Frenchmen picked up four points, via two victories, in the weekend action to move within five points of Red Wings, who dropped a brace of games that ended a 10-game defeatless string.

Saturday night the Montrealers whipped New York, 5 to 1. Last night, the flamboyant Frenchmen rocked the Red Wings, 6 to 2, at Detroit before 13,242 fans.

The setback was a bitter one for the Motor City skaters, coming on top of a 7-2 drubbing to the Chicago Black Hawks a night earlier. Detroit now has 27 points in the standings, Montreal 22.

While the Montreal club was winning, the Hawks remained in high gear, bumping Toronto's Maple Leafs, 6-3, before 16,832 Chicago stadium fans.

The triumph enabled Chicago to move into a fourth place tie with Toronto, which is without a victory in six games.

The Windy City sextet sewed up their seventh win with a three-goal spree in the first period. Met scored goal had given the New Yorkers their temporary 1-0 edge. A crowd of 10,482 saw the game.

Irish Place Four On AP All-Midwest

Chicago, Nov. 28 (P)—Mighty Notre Dame landed four berths today to monopolize the 1949 all-midwestern football team selected by the Associated Press.

The only other school to take more than one position on the honor or squad was another top national ranking outfit, Oklahoma, with two.

One spot each went to Wisconsin, Michigan State, Minnesota, Michigan and Illinois.

Two of Notre Dame's selections—end Leon Hart and fullback Emil Sitko—were the lone holdovers from the 1948 first lineup.

Rounding out the hefty line, which averages 219 pounds, are Wisconsin's Bob Wilson, paired with 245-pound Hart at end; tackles Jim Martin of Notre Dame and Wade Walker of Oklahoma; guards Stan West of Oklahoma and Don Mason of Michigan State; and center Clayton Tonnemark of Minnesota.

The comparatively light (182 average) but powerful and versatile backfield includes, besides Sitko, Notre Dame's Bob Williams at quarterback, and Michigan's Chuck Ortmann and Illinois' Johnny Karras at halfback slots.

Competition among nominees was extremely close at tackle. Only by a shade was Martin and Walker given the call on the mythical eleven over two of the western conference's top selections—33-year-old Al Wistert of Michigan and 250-pound Leo Nomellini of Minnesota.

The 1949 All-Midwestern football team selected by the Associated Press:

Consolation To Navy? 15 Army Men Graduate

New York, Nov. 28 (P)—If it is any consolation to Navy and its football following, 15 of the 37 players used by Army in its 38 to 0 victory at Philadelphia Saturday in the annual service classic have played their final games.

That list includes such stars as Arnold Galiffa, the playing brain, and William Kellum, his favorite pass receiver.

But coming up to fill holes in the Army lineup are the stars of an unbeaten plebe squad that some football critics think is the best frosh squad ever gathered at the Point. Officially, Army coaches say that it will not contribute as much to the coming varsity as did the 1948 plebe outfit.

On the frosh team, however, is a back who is being labelled super-great. He is Gibby Reich, a former Pennsylvania high school ace, a top-notch passer.

The remnants of the great team that splattered Navy Saturday and the oncoming plebes inherit a string of 20 games without defeat that was started in 1947. They also will defend a record of not allowing Navy a victory in the crucial game since 1943.

In their farewell Saturday the 15 Army seniors and their teammates piled up the greatest margin of victory over Navy since the warfare got under way in 1890. It was 38-0.

The massacre completed Army's eighth unbeaten season, the fifth unblemished season in last six years.

After the session was over Coach Earl Blaik refused to compare the team with any of those of Army's recent past.

"During the war years we had great individual personnel," he countered, "this team probably is better balanced as a unit but without such stars as Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard."

Being a member of the Big Seven champions, Thomas has the distinction of being top score among major colleges.

Tops in the east with 114 points is Randy Cooper of West Virginia Tech, who clicked for 19 touchdowns in nine games.

Brad Rowland of Little Murry College (Abilene, Texas), who held a 20-point advantage over Young early this month but lost the lead a week ago Saturday when the Hillsdale ace clicked for 24 points, finished with 108.

Rowland led the point-makers in southwestern territory. He and Young ended their regular seasons the same weekend.

Cards Blast Packers, 41-21

Sink To Cellar Tie With Detroit

Chicago, Nov. 28 (P)—The possibility of the tail end spot in the National Football League today threatened the once-mighty Green Bay Packers.

The one-time league terrors Sunday were blasted, 41-21, by the Chicago Cardinals, and dropped into a last place Western division tie with the Detroit Lions.

The victory solidified the Cardinals hold on third place with a 5-4 record. Detroit and Green Bay each have won two and lost eight.

Chicago struck fast and swift to run up a 34-0 lead in the first 20 minutes of the game, chiefly on the passing of Jim Hardy. He hit Bob Ravensberg for a 48-yard goal, and threw another 11-yard aerial to Mal Kutner.

Girard Is Hot

Other early Cardinal scores were by Red Cochran, who returned a punt 71 yards to pay dirt, a 10-yard touchdown smash by Pat Harder, and a 40-yard heave, Paul Christman to Ravensberg.

The Packers struck back for three second quarter touchdowns to make the half-time score 34-21.

Earl (Jug) Girard was Mr. Big in the return assault of the Packers. He hit End Steve Pritko with two touchdown passes and threw a 28-yard aerial to Bob Forte that set up Halfback Tony Canadeo's one-yard payoff plunge.

Big Canadeo Day

Canadeo gained 122 of the 153 yards rolled up by the Packers during the day to make his 10-game total 953 yards. That is only 55 yards behind the league record of 1,002 set by Steven Van Buren in 1947.

The third period was scoreless but the Cardinals got another touchdown in the final stanza. It came on a five-yard plunge by Elmer Engsmann after Hardy had passed 27 yards to Kutner.

The game was witnessed by a slim crowd of 16,787. Hardy connected on seven of 11 passes for 151 yards and Girard tried 26, completing 10 for 150. Christman hit on five of eight for the Cardinals, good for 48 yards.

MSC CROSS COUNTRY

East Lansing, Nov. 28 (P)—A field of champions was set here today, ready to jog around a snow-covered Michigan State College course in the 11th annual NCAA cross-country run.

S. I. Crew's Commodore Lea, injured last spring in the Preake-ness, will come back to the races this winter at Hialeah.

Whalers Leave For Antarctic

Streamlined Fleets Are Being Used

Washington, D. C.—Bad news for the world's whale population. Now sailing south, en route to the Antarctic, is the vanguard of the 1949 whaling season fleet.

Its departure, notes the National Geographic Society, points up the modernization which has overtaken this ancient maritime industry in the last half century. The 1949 whaler goes to sea as a member of an expertly equipped, highly skilled expedition.

Flagship of the fleet is the large floating factory-vessel, where the valuable whale oil is extracted, the meat cut up, and important by-products prepared. First introduced in the 1920's, these ships today carry tons of machinery, and usually have such up-to-date equipment as radar and deep-sea sounding devices.

For whale-catchers, the expedition has a number of smaller craft, about the size of trawlers. Manned by crews of 15 to 25 men, these "killer boats" fire the deadly harpoons, and tow the captured whales back to the factory ship, to be hauled aboard and processed.

Harpoon and a Rowboat

These streamlined, open-sea methods, say trade spokesmen, are highly effective, but they have scuttled much of the industry's old glamour, with its tall tales of whales swallowing whole boat-loads of men in one enormous mouthful.

Two centuries ago the plucky men who went whaling had to go out in rowboats, lowered from sloops, to harpoon their prey. And because methods were clumsy and hazardous at best, the catch was confined to the smaller, slow-moving species, known as right whales and sperm whales.

The modern age of whaling began about 1860, when Svend Foyn, an inventive Norwegian, devised the harpoon-throwing cannon. His invention made possible the hunting of the speedy and larger species, particularly the big fin-whales, now found only in Antarctic waters.

Vitamins and Lipstick

Whaling in the south polar regions, however, is a recent development. Not until 1904 was the first land station opened there on South Georgia Island, some 800 miles southeast of the Falkland group.

Today the Antarctic waters south of 40 degrees south latitude are the world's last whaling ground of major commercial importance. In an effort to conserve the remaining whale stocks, international treaty regulates both the fishing season and annual catch there.

Whale oil, the chief reward of the expensive Antarctic expeditions, is used extensively in the manufacture of margarine, soap, machine oil, and a host of other products ranging from vitamin pills to lipstick. In Japan, whale meat often appears on dinner tables. Europeans, however, usually grind the meat into a meal, for livestock feed.

18 College Teams Have Perfect Marks

New York, Nov. 28 (P)—Eighteen college football teams sported unbeaten, untied records today and only one of them—mighty Notre Dame—had a game left to complete the regular season.

The Irish wind up their campaign next Saturday against Southern Methodist. They'll be shooting for their 10th triumph of the year and their 38th straight game without defeat.

The Thanksgiving weekend brought many a casualty among the teams boasting perfect records. Seven of them played and stretched their streaks, all except Notre Dame closing out their regular campaigns.

Notre Dame snowed under Southern California, 32-0; Oklahoma routed Oklahoma A & M, 41-0; Army sank Navy, 38-0; College of Pacific ran over California Poly, 88-0; Gannon (Pa.) downed Steubenville, 19-0; Maryland State rolled past the Fayetteville (N. C.) Teachers, 60-0; and Morgan State beat Virginia State, 34-7.

By far the biggest scorer of the 17th unbeaten, untied squads was College of the Pacific, which finished with a total of exactly 500 points while permitting its opponents 66. Oklahoma's Sooners were second highest with 364.

Ohio State Cops Dinghy Regatta

Chicago, Nov. 28 (P)—The University of Michigan placed ninth and Michigan State college 12th in the annual Northwestern university invitational intercollegiate dinghy regatta held here over the weekend.

The meet was won by the Ohio State team, which overcame a 19-point deficit on Sunday to beat out Georgetown university, 295 to 288.

The tourney was held at Belmont Harbor under the auspices of the Chicago boat club. It consisted of 30 races, in which each skipper participated in 15. The triangular course was a mile long. Michigan scored 235 points in the meet and Michigan State, 180.

HOME GROWN

East Lansing, Mich. (P)—All 11 Michigan State starting football players this season hail from the state of Michigan, as do 46 of the 64 men on the squad.

DREAM HOUSE FOR STRANDED ARCTIC AIRMEN—The pneumatic Quonset hut above, made of cotton fabric coated with a low-temperature neoprene compound to withstand extreme cold, is expected to help save the lives of airmen forced down in the Arctic. The hut is draftproof, snowproof, waterproof, compact and easy to carry. It houses four men comfortably and can withstand 100-mile-an-hour gales. It is bright orange in color, making it easy to spot from the air. A 10-foot-long air duct on the sidewall and a four-foot canvas, igloo-like entrance keep out icy blasts, but allow for ventilation. The quaint Quonset was developed by the Air Materiel Command and U. S. Rubber Corp. at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, O.

Professor's Barbecue Is No Short Course

By EDWARD HOFFMAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Stillwater, Okla.—(NEA)—Officially, H. Clay Potts' title at Oklahoma A & M College here is "Director of Short Courses." But officially, Potts is Oklahoma A & M's "Professor of Barbecue."

Potts took charge of short courses—extension education courses for non-undergraduates—at the college in the 1920's. He soon found out that a good meal, with plenty of Oklahoma hospitality, made friends for the school and for his educational work.

So Potts began to produce gigantic barbecues. He once fed 17,000 persons in a few hours. Now he averages about 50,000 persons a year, who come away from his pit-prepared meals with a satisfied feeling.

When he became short course director, he had a good working background in barbecuing. But in the last 20 years, he's added a few twists of his own to the science. His talents are borrowed by concerns and organizations whenever a big feast is called for, but, as a public relations gesture, he runs the barbecues just for expenses.

"I don't serve come-one-come-all barbecues," he says. "Like all cooks, I want to know in advance how many persons I'll have to feed, the nature of the affair, what facilities are available—and then I blueprint my plan."

Preparing a barbecue is a lengthy proposition, the way Potts does it. He gets to the scene the day before, with the college's staff meat expert, Forrest Little. Little wraps the meat in bundles while Potts supervises the pit.

Potts, meanwhile, is having the pit dug. Planning the pit size is a complicated business, calling for higher mathematics. He figures a 10-foot long trench, 3½ feet deep and 3 feet wide, will handle 400 pounds of meat, or enough to feed 800 persons.

Potts lets the meat cook about eight hours, but says that overcooking does no harm. Then the joyous moment arrives when the meat is removed, the bundles opened, the Potts' barbecue sauce—a mixture of such ingredients as catsup, Worcestershire sauce, liquid smoke and brown sugar—poured over it.

Then—well, the only thing left is to pick up a knife and fork and dig in. While his guests do just that, Potts circulates around the crowd, saying a pleasant "Howdy" to them all, and spreading the word about Oklahoma A & M as he goes.

The Professor of Barbecue finds that his course quite often has students who like to come back for another portion of his brand of tasty knowledge.

PGA Starts By Honoring Snead

Southern Pines, N. C., Nov. 28 (P)—The 33rd annual meeting of the Professional Golfers' Association of America opened a four-day stand here today, with the usual reports of officers and committees.

The annual president's banquet tonight will honor Sam Snead as the professional golfer of the year. The White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer grabbed a half dozen major events this year, including the PGAN and Masters.

Better Leather Goods Promised

Cincinnati, Ohio—Better quality leather as well as a guarantee to dealer who buys leather hides that he is not being gypped are promised from a moisture-measuring device announced here this morning.

The instrument, about the size and weight of a portable radio, will give instant readings of the moisture in leather to a worker in a factory or a buyer at a hide market without injuring the leather, it is claimed. It was developed in the Tamm's Council Research Laboratory at the University of Cincinnati by Dr. Seymour Kremen of New York City, research associate in the laboratory, and Leigh M. Matthews, instructor in electrical engineering at the university.

Decay Perils Sweet Tooth

Frequent Use Of Brush Advised

Minneapolis, (SS)—If you have a sweet tooth, and want to satisfy it, use toothbrush and mouth rinse immediately afterwards to avoid tooth decay. Better use toothbrush and mouth wash after any meal.

This advice, bringing the fight on caries full circle back to the clean tooth idea, comes from studies by Drs. H. W. Haggard and Leon A. Greenberg of Yale University.

These scientists are physiologists, not dentists. They take the view that if sugar is a cause of tooth decay, regardless of the mechanism by which it affects teeth, the magnitude of its effect will be related to the concentration of sugar in the mouth and particularly to how long it stays there.

A caramel and orange juice, they found, both brought the sugar content of the saliva up to almost the same high point of 800 mg per 100 cc. But 20 minutes after the orange juice, there was almost no sugar left from it in the saliva, whereas 45 minutes after the caramel, there was still considerable sugar left from it.

Thoroughly brushing and washing teeth and mouth after eating the caramel, however, immediately brought the sugar concentration in the saliva to the zero baseline.

Trying to avoid tooth decay by avoiding sugar, the Yale scientists point out, is impractical, because almost all starch foodstuffs produce sugar in the mouth, and micro-organisms involved in tooth decay make no distinction as to the source of the sugar.

A mixed meal, for example, brought the sugar concentration in the saliva to more than 600 mg per 100 cc, and it took 45 minutes before the sugar had dropped to the point reached 20 minutes after the orange juice.

Their tests, reported in the Dental Survey here, were made at five, 10, 20, 30 and 45-minute intervals after eating each of the following: a mixed meal, fresh orange juice, grapefruit juice, ice cream, crackers, chewing gum, caramel candy and sweetened bottled soft drinks.
